Dawn Jamison structures corporate transactions and advises businesses on governance matters, turning sound legal work into real commercial progress.

Dawn approaches each matter with a practical, thoughtful perspective, working closely with clients and colleagues to understand their objectives and deliver thorough, responsive work product. She draws on her developing experience across a variety of corporate matters to help clients navigate their legal needs and make informed business decisions.

Dawn has experience with significant domestic and cross-border M&A transactions, including acquisitions, mergers, and other strategic transactions. She plays an active role throughout the transaction lifecycle, including leading and coordinating legal due diligence, identifying and analyzing material legal and business risks, managing specialist teams, and reviewing a broad range of commercial and corporate agreements. Her diligence and contract review experience includes assessing key customer, vendor, employment, licensing, financing, and other material agreements and translating findings into actionable advice for clients and deal teams.

Dawn also has experience supporting public companies with routine regulatory filings and corporate governance, as well as larger transactions such as IPOs and bring down offerings. Her capital markets experience includes preparing and reviewing proxy statements and offering documents, coordinating and delivering bring-downs and other closing requirements, and assisting with disclosure matters throughout the transaction process. Dawn can also provide thoughtful input on corporate governance documents and practices.
