Jacqueline keeps complex litigation on track from first filing to verdict, giving trial teams the organized, court-ready foundation they need to walk into the courtroom prepared.

Jacqueline brings litigation paralegal support across the full arc of a case — from complaint through trial or resolution — with particular depth in large, high-stakes matters that demand precision at every stage. She manages the discovery process end-to-end, deploying a wide range of litigation technology platforms including Nuix Discover, Relativity, CasePoint, CaseMap, TextMap, TimeMap, OnCue, Opus2 and Trial Director to keep voluminous document sets organized and attorney-ready.

Jacqueline prepares discovery requests and responses, identifies and locates witnesses, and readies them for depositions and trial testimony. She tracks case deadlines, conducts citation review, drafts pleadings, and performs legislative and statutory research to support the legal team's analysis of complex legal issues. Her experience with HIPAA-sensitive information in high-profile matters reflects the care she brings to managing confidential case materials.

At trial, Jacqueline works directly in the courtroom, preparing and managing exhibits, deposition materials, and evidentiary hearing documents. She has served as lead paralegal on significant civil litigation matters, including a class action involving conditions at a state correctional institution and litigation challenging state voter identification laws — cases that required coordinating across large teams, managing extensive records, and maintaining accuracy under pressure.
