

Jordan L. Stott

Partner

stott.jordan@dorsey.com

Boise – 208.617.2535

Jordan Stott litigates patent, trademark, trade secret, and copyright disputes for innovators and brand owners—turning IP conflicts into resolved claims, injunctions, and protected market positions.

Jordan brings a practical, technology-grounded approach to intellectual property litigation, representing clients from early-stage companies to multinational corporations in federal courts and before the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO). His practice spans the full spectrum of IP disputes—patent, trademark, trade secret, and copyright—with particular depth in industries where the stakes of infringement are high: firearms, aerospace, medical devices, fitness equipment, food processing, and mechanical systems. Jordan has also assisted companies in overseeing and managing complex intellectual property disputes spanning multiple countries, helping coordinate strategy across jurisdictions. His patent litigation experience includes design patent matters, where questions of product appearance, consumer perception, and market differentiation often play a central role.

On the patent side, Jordan counsels clients through infringement disputes, claim construction battles, and proceedings before the Patent Trial and Appeal Board (PTAB). He also supports clients with patent prosecution and portfolio management, including coordinating filings in European and Asian jurisdictions. This dual litigation-and-prosecution perspective allows Jordan to advise clients not just on how to fight a dispute, but on how to build IP assets that are harder to challenge in the first place.

Trademark and copyright work rounds out Jordan's practice. He has pursued and defended infringement claims in various Districts across the United States, securing injunctive relief for brand owners and resolving disputes through strategic motion practice. His experience managing international IP disputes adds another dimension for clients whose brands and products cross borders.

Education

- University of Idaho College of Law (J.D., 2015)
 - cum laude
- Utah State University (B.S., Mechanical Engineering, 2012)

Bar Admissions

- Idaho
- United States Patent and Trademark Office

Jordan's articles on emerging IP issues—including the intersection of artificial intelligence and celebrity identity rights, and the strategic use of brands in film and media—reflect his ongoing focus on where intellectual property law is heading, not just where it has been.

Select Experience

- Represented agribusiness company and trademark owner in the Northern District of California in a trademark infringement matter involving fertilizer labeling; successfully obtained injunctive relief prohibiting infringing and misleading labeling.
- Represented trademark owner and manufacturer of aftermarket parts for high-performance snowmobiles in the District of Idaho in a trademark infringement matter; case settled favorably after a motion for preliminary injunction was filed.
- Represented patent owner in a patent infringement matter involving firearm accessories; case settled favorably following claim construction briefing.
- Represented company in a patent infringement matter involving electrical processing equipment, including through appeal to the Federal Circuit.

Court Admissions

- U.S. District Court for the District of Idaho

Professional Affiliations

- Board Member, Idaho Technology Council, 2022 - present
- Member, American Intellectual Property Law Association, 2015 - present
- Member, American Bar Association, 2015 – present