Denver – 303.352.1160

Kristina represents clients in antitrust, commercial, and intellectual property litigation, from early injunction proceedings through trial and appeal.

Kristina's practice spans antitrust, commercial, and intellectual property litigation. She has worked on matters at every stage, from preliminary injunction and temporary restraining order briefing through summary judgment and trial, managing discovery issues, drafting motions and briefs, and supporting trial preparation.

Kristina helps clients in antitrust disputes and has obtained favorable preliminary injunction and appellate rulings in antitrust disputes nationwide, with additional matters pending. She also assists clients seeking merger clearance from the U.S. Department of Justice (DOJ) and the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), including Second Request investigations and Hart-Scott-Rodino Act compliance.

Kristina maintains an active pro bono practice, including work with an innocence project on behalf of an exonerated client and cases involving reproductive rights and free speech. She also volunteers as a mock trial judge and coach.
